Heavy showers and thunderstorms are possible in a few places, leading to possible flooding and travel disruption

What to expect

- Spray and sudden flooding could lead to difficult driving conditions and some road closures
- There is a small chance that homes and businesses could be flooded quickly, with damage to some buildings from floodwater or lightning strikes, possibly also by hail or strong winds
- Where flooding or lightning strikes occur, there is a chance of delays and some cancellations to train and bus services
- There is a slight chance that power cuts could occur and other services to some homes and businesses could be lost

Further details

The warm, humid airmass across the southern half of the UK will lead to further heavy showers and thunderstorms on Saturday, some persisting into the night. Many places will miss the thunderstorms, but where they occur 20-30 mm is possible in an hour and up to 40-50 mm in 2 to 3 hours. Lightning is another potential hazard.

Reason for update

The warning area has been adjusted to remove parts of central England and Wales, whilst now including more of southwest England.
